How To Play

First print out the game boards and the calling cards.

Cut out all the calling cards. To make them last you can alway clear duracell them.

Collect a bunch of objects to cover your board with when your food has been called. This could be coins, lego pieces or counters.

Each Player has his or hers own game board.
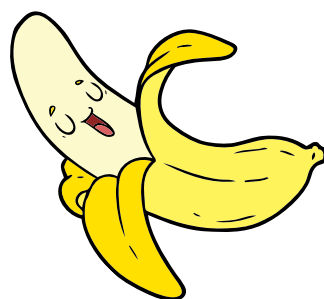

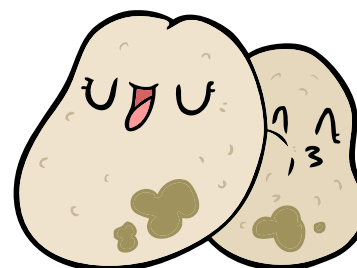

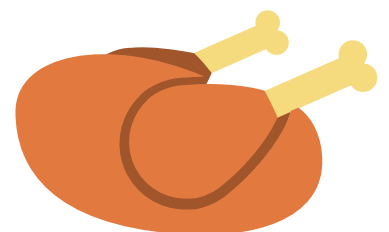

One person is the caller. The caller uses the calling cards to call out a food source in Maori to the other players.

If a player has the said food then they can cover up that food.

The first person to cover 3 items in a row wins or you can play the first person to cover their whole board wins. Easy :)
